PRESIDENT'S RAMBLINGS.....THE TRAVELOGUE

We are still on the road. Since my last ramblings we did a little more poking around the Eyre Peninsular, particularly Kimba where I lived for a few years in my youth, most memories are from photos as it was a long time ago. We found the old house we used to live in, now empty but pretty much how I remembered it, still with a Hills Hoist in the back yard that Dad used to hang the chooks from ready for plucking after chopping off their head. No Kentucky Fried in those days.

There is a railway line that runs right down the middle of Eyre Peninsular from Buckleboo to Cummins and Wudinna to Cummins as well with many feeder lines along the way. Sadly, no longer in use, along with the many grain silos at the railway sidings. All the grain is now trucked to wherever they can get the best price, must be a logistical nightmare working out grain price against transport costs. There are rumors of reactivating the network but money needs to be spent to upgrade existing run-down infrastructure so nothing much has happened.

We did a Giant Cuttlefish tour in a glass bottomed boat at Port Bonython out from Whyalla. Quite an amazing creature which was nearly wiped out by fishing for the export market only a few years ago. Hard work by tourist operators and fishing regulators has now seen their numbers return. Worth seeing if you are visiting that way.
